BIO

Kia Stephens is a wife and mom of two who is passionate about helping women know God as Father. For this reason, she created The Father Swap Blog to help women exchange their father wounds for the love of God the Father. Kia is also the founder of Entrusted Women, which she created to equip Christian women communicators of color. In addition to these ministries, Kia serves in her local church in Atlanta, Georgia. When Kia is not writing or serving women, she enjoys spending quality time with her family and friends. Kia released her first book, Overcoming Father Wounds, on March 7, 2023.

On Your Mark, Get Set, Go! How to Launch Anything From Scratch

Whether you are starting a blog, launching a podcast, promoting a book, or creating a Youtube channel, building your online presence is only half the battle. The next step is to share your new idea with the world. But how? How do you build momentum before you ever go public? How do you drive traffic to your website? How do you create anticipation in minds of your ideal target audience? Launching something new does not have to be limited to hopeful marketing. There are proven steps to launching anything no matter what your audience size. This session will give you 7 proven strategies to help you launch anything from scratch.

How To Write and Speak About Hard Topics

You believe God has called you to share your difficult story with the world but just exactly how are you supposed to do that? How do you know when you are ready to share your story? How do you share honestly while respecting the other people involved? In this breakout session, Kia will unpack 6 non-negotiable guidelines she follows for writing and speaking about hard topics.

Writing and Speaking About Hard Topics In Hard Times

The world is changing rapidly and this is impacting Christian authors. This was Kia's experience when she launched a book about father wounds in the post 2020 landscape. In this keynote presentation Kia recounts her experience and three lessons she learned about trusting God. The audience will walk away with insight, courage, and renewed determination to share their unique message with the world.

Embracing the D.A.S.H. in Your Communicator Story

Kia believed God was calling her to write and speak when she was 18 years old. She had no idea it would take 26 years for that dream to manifest. In this vulnerable message Kia recounts her journey while extracting lessons from the life of Moses. Kia will leave the audience with 4 practical things they can do to embrace the D.A.S.H. in their communicator story. The audience will leave determined to persevere in their waiting.

The One Thing Every Writer Must Do

Being a Christian communicator can be overwhelming. There is always one more thing to do. Whether it's social media or sending an email to your email list, the job is never done. As we attempt to check off boxes on our to-do - list we sometimes forget what is most important. In this message key refocuses the audience on the one thing every writer must do while gleaning from the life of David. Audience members will leave with a renewed commitment to accomplish what matters most.
